Chord tone soloing is a technique to make your solo sound "in" the backing track.

Where To Download

With this technique you are able to choose the notes that will sound best at any given moment in your solo. Chord Tone soloing does not restrict you to play "inside" the track: you can choose to deliberately violate it to sound "outside" like some Jazz players do.

What Is Chord Tone
Soloing? - Music
Theory For Guitar

For the past few decades or so, more and more jazz players have been using the chord-scale approach for soloing over chords in progressions. The chord-scale approach is based on the idea
